Campy Daytona vs. Shimano Ultegra?

It all boils down to form and comfort. For long rides during the weekends I use my bike with the daytona group as I spend more time on the drops of the handle bars. I dig the ergo power shifting while on this position. Plus the 10 speed helps bigtime! On my weekday 20 mile ride through the city, I spend 80% of time on the hoods.

Campagnolo

Campagnolo is an Italian manufacturer of bicycle components with headquarters in Vicenza, Italy. The components are organised as groupsets (gruppi), and are a near-complete collection of a bicycle's mechanical parts. Campagnolo's flagship components are the Super Record, Record, and Chorus groupsets with all three representing their recent shift to 12-speed drivetrains.
